The Cleveland team closed its season in this city Saturday afternoon with a victory over the Senators-1 to 0. As on Friday, it was a pitchers' battle, an unlucky base on balls giving the one run necessary to win to the visitors. The game was replete with brilliant plays, and the nine innings were recled off in one hour and twenty minutes, the fastest game on the local grounds this season. But one error was made, a muff of thrown ball by Turner, although First Baseman Carr had the unique experience of robbing himself of a pretty two-bagger which he sent into left center.

With one out in the fifth inning, Carr laced out a line drive and tore down to first. Seeing that he could make second by good running, he paid little attention to the sack as he turned the angle. First Baseman Herring called Umpire King's attention to Carr as he was turning the initial corner, and the indicator holder saw the runner skip the base by about eight inches. It was not the arbitrator's business to call attention to the fact, but Herring called for the ball, and as quick as it shot into his glove Carr was declared out. There was some little kicking by the Cleveland players, but it quickly quieted down when they realized that no mistake had been made and that King had his optics on the Little . Joe Cassidy, at short, had the Little Joe Cassidy, at short, had the hear of pulling off the star play of the afternoon. It bobbed up in the third inning and Pitcher Donahue was the victim. With one out. Donahue hit such a fast greunder over second that but few of the spectators expected Cassidy to make a try for the ball. Joe rushed over and finally reached the ball about six feet back of second. He picked the ball up with his left hand while on the dead run, shifted it to his right and by a beautiful throw to Her-ring easily put out the batter. The play was startling in its unexpectedness, and the spectators cheered the Chester boy for several minutes. Turner of the Clevelands was also busy a short, making many good plays, while Manager Donovan and Centerfielder O'Neill pushed their way in the lime light of appreciation by pulling off plays out of the ordinary. O'Nelli's play was a nice catch of Turner's fly after a hard run, while Donovan nailed Bemis at third as the latter was trying to go from second after Patsy had caught Bay's long fly. The throw was very accurate, the ball landing in Hill's hands on the fly about a yard from the third sack. Big Tom Hughes and "Red" Donahue Big Tom Hughes and "Red" Donahue were the opposing twirlers and both men pitched brilliantly, the Blues getting six hits, while the Senators had to be content with four. When the difference in batting ability of the two teams is taken into consideration, Hughes' work knows up as fully the equal of that of Donahue's. Hughes also pulled off a nice piece of work in the first inning, when he made a quick throw first inning, when he made a quick throw to Cassidy and caught Billy Lush napping off the second sack. There were two on bases at the time with Bradley up, and the put out was especially appreciated on this

The batters of both sides generally went out, inning after inning, in their order of going to the plate, the seventh inning fur-nishing the only excitement of the game, as the Clevelands scored their solitary run and the Senators got two men on bases. Flick waited patiently and finally was re-warded with four bad ones and walked to first. Stovall followed with a neat sacrifice toward first that Herring and McCormick took care of. Bradley went out, Hill to Herring, and Flick raced to third on the play. Charley Carr had made a flasco on his previous hit, but he was the "right man in the right place" this time, his clean single to right sending Flick over the rub-Turner then forced out Carr at second, but the damage was done. The one run looked very big at the speed the twirlers were going.

In the same inning, after two were out, McCormick got a base on balls and Dono-van tore off a beautiful single to center. It was now up to Herring to tie up the score, but the best the Sunday School Leaguer could do was a bounder to Donahue, and he perished at first. Ciphers went up in the last two innings and the Clevelands walked off the field with three vic teries and one defeat to their credit in the four games played.

Mt. Pleasant-Fourth vs. Gunton. Fourths Defeated Mt. Pleasant Methodists in Fast Game.

A large and noisy crowd of spectators turned out on the Mt. Pleasant grounds last Saturday to witness the Fourth Presbyterian and the Mt. Pleasant Methodist teams play, the former winning after one of the most brilliantly fielded games this season by the score of 6 to 2.

The large crowd turned out on the strength of the two teams playing such a good game the day before, and its expectations were fully realized by the exhibition of ball that was given. Although the score was not so close numerically as the day before, both teams were on their toes from the start, and anything from a home run to a foul fly was expected by the rooters. Donaldson did the twirling for the Fourths, and with the support he received put up a beautiful game of ball, allowing but six hits, which were all so well scattered that they did no material damage in the run column. His opposing twirler, Wahler, was easily found by the Fourths' batsmen, who banged him over the field for thirteen hits, a good many of which came in the nick of time and added some-AB. R. BH. PO. A. BROOKLAND LOSES A GAME.

Reporters Victorious Through Their Opponents' Errors.

In a game replete with misplays the Law Reporter team won from Brookland Saturday afternoon on the latter's grounds. The latter team outbatted their opponents, but the fielding was of the rankest sort, misjudged files, fumbled grounders and muffed flies and throws being the order of the day. All of the Law Reporters' runs were scored after chances had been given to retire the side. The work of Crown, Fletcher and Marean was good, but the feature was the battery work of Simons and Collie. Mt. Washington Defeated in Loosely-Played Game.

The Mount Washington club lost a hard game to the Commissioners' club of this city at Mount Washington, near Baltimore, Saturday, in the presence of 500 persons. Score, 6 to 5. Notwithstanding a total of thirteen errors, the game caused intense excitement. Mount Washington boys made ten hits off Wahler, but the sphere seemed to float around at random, even when Mount Washington's best men wrapington earned the game from a batting standpoint, but surely could not expect to keep it and commit nine errors. Lowe pitched a very strong game, allowing but four hits, but lacked his usual control, as four men walked to first base. Score:

Base Ball Notes.

St. Louis starts a series of four games with the Senators today. First Baseman Stahl has wired Manager

Donovan that he will report for duty to-As the Browns have a postponed game with the Senators, they will probably play a double-header tomorrow, the first game starting at 2 c'clock. The Cleveland aggregation apparently worked better with Stovall at second than when the Great Lajote has charge.

Tomorrow being "ladies' day," and a double-header being on the program, a big crowd will be on hand to welcome home Sir Jacob Stahl. The St. Louis team reached Washington yesterday and is quartered at the Riggs.

Everybody on the team was chipper over the double victory at New York Saturday, but it takes the Senators to make the Browns crawl. Jacobsen or Wolfe will probably do the pitching today for the locals, while the speedy Glade or Pelty will serve them up for the Browns. Providence has arranged to secure Osteen and Puttmann of the New York Americans. It is a surprising affair when Billy Keeler makes two home runs in a game. Keeler is not a hitter of the slugger variety.

Jersey City is handicapped by the absence of First Baseman Cassidy, who has a broken bone in his right arm by being his by a pitched ball.
Roland Wolfe, formerly of the Boston Americans, has been purchased by Mil-waukee from Dubuque. Wolfe was sold by Cantillon to Dubuque and turned out to be the best catcher in the Three I League. An all-star Southern League team, piloted by Charley Frank, is booked to invade Cuba in the fall. That makes three contemplated tours to the queen of the antilles, but the Frank Bancroftian expedition is in as uncertain shape as that tour of the world. GREAT FUTURITY.

Artful Triumphed, Tradition Second

Ridden out to the end, Artful had an advantage of five lengths over Sydney Paget's game filly Tradition, by Goldfinch-Reclare, who, with Lyne up, took second money in who, with Lyne up, took second money in the last few strides by a head from James R. Keene's phenomenal Sysonby, by Melten-Optime, an overwhelming favorite.

The distance was six furlongs, and Artful covered it in the remarkable time of 1.11.4-5. She was in receipt of ten pounds from Sysonby and thirteen from Tradition, having a maiden allowance which made her burned 114. Tradition carried top weight and gave three pounds to Sysonby according to the scales.

Mr. Fitzgerald experienced very little trouble in getting the field to face the ribbon. Hot Shot was inclined to kick up and do some waltzing, but he was soon subdued. Then with all standing still, yet nerved do some waltzing, but he was soon subdued. Then with all standing still, yet nerved up to the highest pitch, and the jockeys on the alert, Mr. Fitzgerald sprung the barrier to a beautiful start. The cloud of dust denoted the send-off, and with the usual thrilling cry, "They're off!" the anxious thousands strained their eyes in vain efforts to see what was going on.

There was no mistaking Sysonby, however, for Redfern's white jacket was clearly in evidence, and with the raising of the parrier the Melton colt instantly got into his stride and, cutting across half the field, set a tremendous pace in the middle of the track.

"Sysonby has the lead, and he'll run the others dizzy in the first quarter," exclaimed the track sharps, who had snapped their watches with the fall of the time flag.

"Sysonby has them all staggering now," was another comment that went up with a wild shriek. But as it turned out Sysonby did not have a commanding advantage by did not have a commanding advantage at any stage. Hildebrand had gotten away like a flash of lightning with Artful and was only a head back, with Tanya close was only a head back, with Tanya close beside her, followed by Woodsaw and Tradition. Then came Hot Shot and Aglle, with the others practically run off their feet in the first furlong.

Redfern had not made a move on the Keene colt, however, and maintained the lead right up to the bend of the track. There it was that the crowd expected to see Sysonby draw away and come home in all his majesty, carrying the fortunes of the multitude. the multitude.

Sysonby swept down straight toward the field stand with such a small margin that as soon as he reached it it was evident that he would have to run a greater race than ever before to win.

Hildebrand had kept Artful at his saddle

The moment Sysonby got around the bend it was seen that he was in trouble. Men and women who had bet on him turned as white as the proverbial sheet, and could not utter a sound. Others sank and could not utter a sound. Others sank down in their chairs, unwilling to look upon his defeat. Not so much because of sentiment, but because of the losses they were of hearts and made the bookmakers tumble off their stools, came Artful, showing joy to those who own her and had backed her. Hildebrand had realized that the crisis had arrived. He gave Artful her head, and with tremendous strides and dazzling speed she passed Sysonby in half a dozen strides, Tanya having dropped back under the terrific strain.

Redfern was doing his best. He put Sysonby under the whip, and the Melton colt, game to the core, struggled on. But it was a hopeless task to overhaul Artful, and as Tradition began to come with tremendous power under Lyne's persuasion the crowd realized that the Keene colt would not only be beaten for first money, crisis had arrived. He gave Artful her would not only be beaten for first money, but also lose the place.

And so they rushed down to the wire, with Hildebrand looking back and urging Artful to do her best. The richness of the stake and the avoitement of the moment

Out of sheer admiration for the winner the crowd applauded and cheered long and loud. But when Sysonby was beaten a the crowd applauded and cheered long and loud. But when Sysonby was beaten a head for the place there was a groan that was an unmistakable indication of the wounded feelings of those who had seen another race track sure thing go wrong. Hildebrand came in for a wonderful ovation as he came back to the scales, where he enjoyed the happiest moment of his life.

A Fortune for the Winner. The race was worth $54,290 gross, of which amount $43,540 went to the winner, with $4,915.06 to the second horse and $2,083.34 to the third horse. To the nominator of the winner, the Whitney estate, went $2,000, with $1,250 for J. B. Haggin, who nominated Tradition, and $500 to Jas. R. Keene, who nominated Sysonby.

After the race Mr. Duryea was warmly congratulated and so was Trainer Rogers. Hildebrand said there was never a moment when he felt the race in doubt. He said that he could have gone to the front at any stage, but rode according to instructions. Redfern said that Sysonby tired percentibly after reaching the bend, and perceptibly after reaching the bend, and that the colt undoubtedly did his best. Lyne stated that Tradition was rather slow to begin, but that when she finally got into her stride she exceeded his expectation. There was no excuse for the others.

With entries closing today in New York for the amateur golf championship there seems little possibility of a British contingent appearing in the list. In fact, as the time for the struggle approaches the more unlikely has seemed the presence of either Robert Maxwell or the Hunter brothers, while no intimation has been received that E. M. Byers or F. O. Horstman will return home in time for the meeting, which begins tomorrow week at Baltusrol. From English advices to hand it would seem from their tone that British golfers individually are disinclined to take the initiative. Apparently they shrink from coming over "on their own," as it were, and regard such a step as requiring recognition from some official source.

That a number of British golfers would readly make the trip is to be inferred from gladly make the trip is to be inferred from gladly make the trip is to be inferred from articles written in various papers by Messrs. H. H. Hilton, Horace Hutchinson, Charles Lehmann and J. H. Low. All deplore the fact that there is no official body such as the United States Golf Association, and that the Royal and Ancient Club takes no hand in affairs apart from the rules and appeals thereon. For the same reason, ho teams will come here this season, and for this reason there is now an agitation for the formation of a body which will have the power to give an aggregation of tried golfers an official flavor.

Thus the coming championship will in all this beautiful and the international likelihood be robbed of the international air which two months ago seemed assured. The field, however, will be a bumper, but in spite of this so little is the confidence reposed in any of our home players to wrest the title from W. J. Travis that several wagers at even money have been placed on the champion against the field. The competition will be a trying one from start to finish, and endurance will have as much bearing on the issue as skill. The first day will be devoted to a single round at medal play, the best sixty-four scores to continue on Wednesday. In the latter there will be two rounds at medal play, when the thirty-two best scores will continue at match play. All the latter, except the final, will be at eighteen holes. Had the U. S. G. ounds before the San Francisco Athletic Club on Friday night, September 30. Gans has not trained for a contest for a long time, and he will train hard, he says, when he reaches the west to shape up for the "Fighting Irishman." Gardner is well liked in California, and the gate receipts are expected to be fat.

The club has guaranteed a $5,000 purse, with a privilege of percentage. Kid Sullivan, the crack Washington featherweight, accompanied Gans to California, and no-body knows what Sullivan may take on while away. He gave Eddie Hanlon a beating in Baltimore, and he wants to be close to Gans, who he thinks will make im a champion, too. Manager Al Herford says that it was his intention to match Sullivan with "Battling" Nelson, who recently defeated Eddie Hanlon in nineteen rounds, but if this match cannot be arranged he will try to match him with Young Corbett, Au-relia Herrera, the Mexican; Eddie Hanlon, Benny Yanger, Jimmy Britt, or, in fact, anybody in the world.

Manager Herford, it will be remembered, tried to arrange a match between Britt and Gans when Britt was in Philadelphia last winter on the night of the Sharkey-Munroe bout, and Britt climbed into the ring and said he was a feather-weight and did not intend to box any more lightweights, but was open to meet any of the featherweights. When Sullivan and Gans arrive on the coast Gans will immediately get after Britt should the latter still assert that he is a feather-weight.

latter still assert that he is a feather-weight.

Manager Herford has given Gans authority to make a match for Sullivan to box Britt and to make a side bet of $1,000 or more that the Washington boy can defeat Britt. Zick Abrams, the well-known San Francisco bookmaker, will look after the interests of Gans and Sullivan until Manager Herford arrives on the coast.

It is proposed on Sullivan's return to match him with Terry McGovern before the Eureka Club. the Eureka Club. Sullivan is said to have come to Herford because of Herford's having already produced two champions in Gans and young Peter Jackson, one of the lightweight and the other of the middleweight class. BAD AUTO ACCIDENT.

Oldfield's Machine Killed Two Men While Racing at St. Louis.

AUTOMOBILE RACES.

Two Spectacular Accidents Caused Great Excitement.

The automobile races at Grosse Pointe track, near Detroit, Saturday were unproductive of unusually startling speed performances, and records were not closely approached. The fastest mile was done in 57 2-5 seconds, made by Barney Oldfield with his "green dragon" in the fourth lap of the ten-mile open event. The best race of the afternoon was the last on the card, another ten-mile contest. Of ten entries there were only four starters, and the race soon narrowed down to two drivers, H. H. Lyttle of Toledo, and Charles Garndt of Cleveland, both driving eight-cylindered machines. The men drove almost side by side during the last three or four miles, Lyttle winning by a length, largely as the result of reckless daring in taking the last two turns. Lyttle and Garndt also ran close together for second place in the five-mile handicap race, in which Garndt, with three-eighths of a mile handicap, forged a few feet ahead at the tape. Two spectacular accidents caused great excitement in the stands. In the first race Kulik of Detroit drove into the fence, race Kulik of Detroit drove into the fence, but was not seriously hurt. In a speed trial, when Charles Schmidt of Detroit was driving his machine, the "gray wolf," for the five-mile record, a rear tire exploded, and the machine veered into the fence just as it was turning into the stretch on the fifth mile. Two or three lengths of the fence were demolished and several posts were broken off at the ground, but Schmidt clung to his machine and miraculously escaped with a few bad bruises.

Over 6,000 people saw the races.

WOMEN GOLFERS. Miss Everett Won Western Championship at Glenview Saturday.

Miss Frances Everett of the Exmoon Country Club won the woman's western Golf championship on the Glenview Gol Club's grounds, near Chicago, Saturday by defeating Miss J. Anna Carpenter of West ward Ho one up on the home green. Miss Everett's long game was the best ever exhibited by a woman over the western championship course. Out in 49 to Miss Carpenter's 50, Miss Everett was one up at the turn. She had won four of the first nine holes, lost three and two were halved. The tenth was halved, and the eleventh was also halved. despite Miss Carpenter's bit of bad luck which sent the ball into the river. By brilliant work Miss Carpenter took the brilliant work Miss Carpenter took the twelfth in bogey four, and taking the next two holes from Miss Everett she was 2 up. But Miss Everett squared matters at the sixteenth, won the seventeenth because Miss Carpenter topped her drive into the long green and halved the home hole, winning one up.
